GENERAL INFORMATION

GREETINGS,

Welcome to the 2021 Chicago Sky Media Guide. The Chicago Sky appreciates your continued support and coverage to help promote women's professional basketball. Please pay close attention to this section. The Chicago Sky thanks you in advance for your cooperation.

Chicago Sky Public Relations Staff

Kelly Kane, Director of Public Relations, kkane@chicagosky.net, (312) 994-5984
Jake Meister, Public Relations Coordinator, media@chicagosky.net, (847) 772-0261

PLEASE NOTE: Any of the above information is subject to change. Please reach out to a member of the Chicago Sky's Public Relations department with any questions. The following information is courtesy of the WNBA.

There will be no in-person media interviews at WNBA games or practices. We will continue to evaluate this policy during the season and adjust as the circumstances around the national health situation dictate.

Zoom is the mandatory platform for virtual media availabilities as it enables us to share most efficiently to the NBA content network. Teams will coordinate all virtual media availabilities, including developing the link, sharing the link with media and moderating the sessions at both practices and games.

In order to facilitate league-wide media coverage, Team PR will send zoom media availability information no later than 4 PM ET daily to Sam Tager, stager@nba.com. Combined team media availability information will be sent out to media the night prior.

GENERAL MEDIA AVAILABILITIES

Practice Days Media Availability (Training Camp, Preseason, Regular Season)
Teams must allow their team content person and team photographer access to 10 minutes of practice to acquire "b-roll" and photos that will be shared as soon as possible on the NBA Content Network for use by NBA Entertainment as well as national and local media.
Teams must make their head coach and two pre-selected players, including at least one projected starter, available on a rotational basis during any practice day.
When on the road, teams are permitted to do these media availabilities at the team hotel if resources are not available at the practice site.
Teams should make best efforts to accommodate the player requests made by the media attending the virtual media availability.
Practice is defined as any time a majority of players take the court for a non-game day workout with the head coach present.
If a team is not routinely practicing, the NBA Communications department will work with the team to determine on which off-days the team must have availability, even if they do not practice.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Game Day Shootaround/Arena Walkthrough
For shootaround/arena walkthrough, teams must make two players available, including at least one projected starter, available on a rotational basis to media prior/after the team's shoot-around.
When on the road, teams are permitted to do these media availabilities at the team hotel if resources are not available at shootaround site. Teams should make best efforts to accommodate the player requests made by the media attending the virtual media availability. Shootaround/Walkthrough is defined as any time a majority of players take the court on gameday with the head coach present.

Pregame Media Availability
The head coach for both teams must be available via a virtual press conference before the game. The home coach will be available 75 minutes prior to the game and the visiting coach 60 minutes prior.
*Subject to change

Postgame Media Availability
After a 10-minute cooling off period, both head coaches – first one, then the other – will make themselves available to the media via virtual press conference.
Following the head coaches, teams will additionally provide a minimum of three (3) players, including two (2) starters, individually to media through the pre-scheduled Zoom call.
Post-game player media availabilities will run concurrently and be moderated by Team PR, zoom links will be issued to media following the calls.
Specific requests can be made directly to the Team PR Director and teams should make best efforts to accommodate those requests.
Both home and visiting teams will have one virtual interview room available to their team at the arena.

ONE-ON-ONE INTERVIEWS
As mentioned above and until communicated otherwise, there will be no in-person interviews between the media and WNBA team or league personnel. All interviews may only be done virtually or by phone.
Teams are encouraged to facilitate virtual one-on-one interviews that are typically coordinated at practices and games (ie., beat reporters, national columnists and writers, national and local broadcast partners, etc.)
Team content staff will be permitted to conduct in-person interviews at practices and games, subject to all existing Health & Safety protocols, as long as general media is provided opportunities with similar level players for one on ones virtually or by telephone.
In-game and walk-off interviews will be permitted for local and national broadcast partners. These interviews should either be touch-less or with headsets per the WNBA's Cleaning and Sanitizing Guidelines. For local broadcasts, please work with your individual RSNs on processes. For national broadcasts, WNBA Broadcasting will help facilitate the exact process from site.

NETWORK TALENT/SHOOTAROUNDS
Until further notice, teams are not required to open game day shootarounds to network television talent, provided that the team makes its head coach and as many as two key players (as requested by the talent) available via zoom interviews specifically with the talent.

If you have any questions, please contact Dina Skokos, dskokos@nba.com, Ron Howard, rhoward@nba.com, Sam Tager, stager@nba.com, Tish Carmona, tcarmona@nba.com.

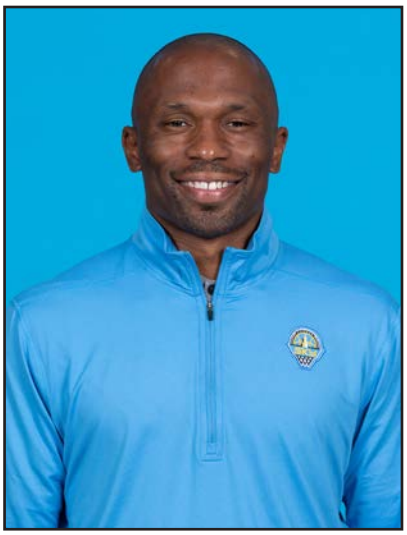
JAMES WADE

GENERAL MANAGER / HEAD COACH



James Wade is in his third season as the General Manager and Head Coach of the Chicago Sky. He was hired as the team's sixth head coach in November of 2018.

Throughout his first three years in Chicago, Wade has turned the franchise into a major destination among the WNBA player landscape, most recently by recruiting future WNBA Hall of Famer Candace Parker to the Sky in the offseason.

Wade has the most wins by any Chicago Sky coach throughout his or her first two seasons (32) and is the only coach in franchise history to have a winning percentage above .500 through two years (.571). 25TH WNBA ANNIVERSARY

In celebration of Women's History Month, the WNBA will be celebrating the league's landmark 25th season throughout 2021. As part of this season-long celebration, the WNBA launched a new campaign, Count It, and a distinguishing and purposeful 25th season logo.

In addition, all 12 WNBA teams will host specifically-themed events and fan promotions to highlight the league's milestones over the years. The WNBA will also celebrate the ways its players have shattered expectations and continue to play key roles in societal advancement, inclusion and social change.

"As we look to celebrate the first 25 years of the league, we are also setting the stage for the next 25 years. The WNBA's new distinctive 25th season logo and Count It campaign signify what makes the league unique," said WNBA Commissioner Cathy Engelbert in a press release distributed by the WNBA. "We are celebrating a quarter of a century of the impact the WNBA has made on sports and society, and on generations of young and diverse athletes."

The commemorative logo will be displayed on the courts, jerseys and game ball.

"We are thrilled to launch a new narrative around the upcoming WNBA season that is rooted in defying expectations and excelling in the face of adversity," said Phil Cook, WNBA Chief Marketing Officer. "The WNBA's 25th Season logo signifies that the league isn't done 'Counting' achievements because there are countless more to come. The WNBA is on the rise and we're excited to bring fans along the journey through a monumental season for the league and for the seasons ahead."

Select initiatives for the WNBA's historic 25th season include the following:

The W25

To commemorate the historic season, the WNBA will select and honor the league's greatest players since its inception in 1997. These game-changing athletes will be selected based on their overall contribution to the league and community. Consideration will be given to such factors as on-court performance and ability, leadership, sportsmanship and community service, as well as to contributions to team success and the overall growth of women's basketball. WNBA fans will also have the chance to vote on their favorite players and choose those they believe should be part of this elite collection of athletes.

WNBA 25 Greatest Moments

The WNBA's 25 Greatest Moments will also be determined during the 2021 campaign with the moments being ranked from No. 25 through No. 1 and unveiled during the second half of the season and the playoffs.

Details on the voting process and timeline for both programs will be announced at a later date.

New WNBA Outfitting and Game Ball for 25th Season
Leading up to the start of the 25th season, inaugural WNBA Changemaker Nike will celebrate the league's dynamic athletes with new uniform innovation with deeper storytelling and details.

Additionally, the official Wilson WNBA game ball will usher in a new chapter for the league, which is highlighted by Wilson's commitment to growing the game of basketball and their support of the WNBA and its players, coaches and fans through the most advanced, high-performance game ball.

25TH WNBA ANNIVERSARY

WNBA 25th Season Advisory Council

The WNBA has established a new advisory council for the 25th season, comprised of women's basketball pioneers and WNBA legends, to capture historic perspective, hear from legacy advisors and successful sports business people, and propel WNBA business objectives. The council is meeting periodically to help generate innovative ideas on how to grow the game and its fanbase. The advisory board consists of iconic retired WNBA players, including four-time WNBA champion and four-time WNBA finals MVP Cynthia Cooper, WNBA champion and founder of Electra Beverages Fran Harris, two-time WNBA champion and three-time MVP Lauren Jackson, two-time WNBA champion and three-time MVP Lisa Leslie, WNBA All-Star and current ESPN reporter and analyst, Rebecca Lobo, four-time WNBA champion and three-time MVP Sheryl Swoopes, four-time WNBA champion and current University of Minnesota Women's Head Coach Lindsay Whalen and Teresa Weatherspoon, five-time WNBA All-Star and New Orleans Pelicans Assistant Coach. Additional advisory board members are Val Ackerman, Commissioner of the Big East and the WNBA's founding President, Carol Stiff, ESPN Vice President of Programming and Acquisitions, and Rick Welts, President and Chief Operating Officer of the Golden State Warriors, 1998 Marketer of the Year for his assistance launching the WNBA and a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame's Class of 2018.

WNBA Social Justice

Established in the lead up to the 2020 season, the WNBA Justice Movement is the platform through which the league will continue to lead important work in the community to combat racial and gender inequality, promote advocacy for LBGTQ+ rights, and champion reform in systems where injustice persists. These collaborative efforts, led by the WNBA/WNBPA Social Justice Council, represent a continued commitment to advancing social justice and being a driving force of necessary change. During the 25th season, The Justice Movement will celebrate the league's history of advocacy across a variety of societal issues.

WNBA Commissioner's Cup

The WNBA's 25th season also marks the debut of the WNBA Commissioner's Cup, an innovative and multi-faceted competition platform. A "competition within a competition" that features player prize pools, the Commissioner's Cup is compromised of 10 designated regular season games per team and culminates in a championship game between the two teams atop the standings in each conference. Uniquely, the Commissioner's Cup platform also convenes fans, players, and partners in local communities for conversations and programming centered on equality and social justice. The Commissioner's Cup Championship Game will take place following the Olympic break as an exciting jumpstart to the resumption of WNBA regular season action. Additional information about Commissioner's Cup will be forthcoming.

2021 WNBA SEASON RESTART VIRTUAL MEDIA OUTLINE

The following is in place for media access for the 2020 WNBA Season Restart, which is tentatively scheduled to be held at the IMG Academy in Bradenton, Florida. With the fluid situation resulting from the pandemic, the main priority remains the health and safety of players and others on site. Due to the limited operational space at the game (and other) venues, along with the health and safety plan developed by league medical staff, as of now the WNBA has restricted in-person access to players, coaches and essential team and league staff, and all media access and interviews will take place virtually (e.g., virtual press conferences) via Zoom Conferencing (or such other virtual meeting platform determined by the WNBA).

The league will continue to review the appropriate health and safety protocols and adjust throughout the season if needed.

ACCESS PLANS FOR VIRTUAL MEDIA ATTENDANCE:

· Throughout the season, no media credential application is necessary.

·Prior to the start of the season, during the Training Camp portion of the season, each WNBA team will conduct an individual virtual media day during which players and coaches will be made available via Zoom Conferencing. Schedule will be distributed at a later date.

·Throughout the season, shoot-around, pregame and postgame media availabilities will be done virtually.

·Following media availabilities, video files will be archived and posted on WNBA Media Central, and player quotes and video files will be distributed by Team PR to media.

·Additional specific player and coach media interview requests can be sent directly to Team PR.

·Media members will receive a tentative schedule of media availability sessions throughout each week of the season from Team PR, subject to change.

·The league and teams encourage media to continue to access WNBA Media Central throughout the season as the main hub for media information, including player quotes.

·WNBA will provide select WNBA game action photos to media following each game, details of which will be distributed at a later date.
